

District News

(From our various correspondents)

Waratah.

Mr. F. Witherspoon, of Newcastle, is now settling in his new home, Redcliff, erected on the heights of North Waratah, which is so attractive to the eye of the visitor. It is one of those comfortable and convenient houses, with large and well ventilated rooms, airy halls, duplicate staircases, well designed servants' quarters, which have every comfort for the working of a large establishment. Electric bells, hot and cold water to all requisite parts, and everything to make work a pleasure instead of a burden, is provided. The spacious 8 feet verandah and balcony, which surrounds the place, gives shelter from the changeable weather and hot sun and is very handsome in design. The owner is busy laying out the grounds, which for years have been in preparation, and are now studded with trees and flowers: and when the whole is finished, the effect will be charming. The architects, Messrs. Bennett and Yeomans, have been very happy in the design, which the contractor, Mr W. Case, has faithfully carried out.

Newcastle Morning Herald and Miners' Advocate. 28 July 1891

In:

Keating, J. (2016). Waratah & Mayfield : nineteenth century industrial towns. Newcastle: Julie Keating, p.62.